International

- Pakistan and Russia are in talks on sales of helicopters, air defence systems and modernised tanks, Defence Minister Khawaja Asif told Russian media. Pakistan is eyeing to modernise its Air Force, the minister said on the sidelines of the fifth Moscow Conference on International Security.
- An ancient stone sculpture of Buddha's footprints that was smuggled into the United States and had been expected to sell for more than $1 million was returned to the government of Pakistan. The piece, called a Buddhapada, was taken from Swat, a region rich in Buddhist history decades ago. It was returned by New York prosecutors to Pakistani Deputy Chief of Mission.
- India has activated a dozen 'laser walls' along the border with Pakistan in Punjab to check cross-border infiltration into its territory and plug the porous riverine and treacherous terrain. Eight such intrusion detection systems were made operational along the many vulnerable and sensitive areas of the international border, a senior official of the Indian Border Security Force (BSF) said.
- UN chief Ban Ki-moon called for the US, China and other nuclear-armed states to end the "madness" of atomic testing by finally ratifying the Comprehensive Nuclear-Test-Ban Treaty, which turns 20 this year. "I call on remaining states, the eight remaining states, to sign and ratify the treaty without further delay," Ban said in Vienna at an event marking the anniversary.
